FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK

Dear St. Mary's Parishioners,

Let me ask you a great question. What do you think God wants? At this very moment, what does he want? It's a strange question. We often don't think about this perspective when we think about God. Oftentimes, we focus on what's happening in our lives and the tremendous burdens that we carry. We petition God to help with our family, our sicknesses, and myriad of other problems. When we go about our normal day, we wonder about what we have to accomplish. We think about our jobs. We think about what we're going to cook for dinner? We think about what we need to do for our family? All great things. But what does God want?

We can begin to answer this question with the famous encounter between Jesus and the unnamed women at the well that we hear about in this Sunday's Gospel reading. To get the deeper meaning behind this story, we must put on our Jewish lenses. The details can be lost on us as 21st century Americans. The first line immediately launches us into the drama, "Jesus came to a town of Samaria called Sychar." (Cf. John 4:5). Jews of the first century did not mingle with the Samaritans. They were seen as half-breeds, traitors, disgusting remnants of the lost ten tribes of the northern Kingdom of Israel who were decimated by the Assyrian Empire in 721 BC. Jews always avoided their territory at all costs.

Then we hear the woman is at a "well" at "noon". First of all, it's important to remember the cultural significance of a well in Jewish culture of that era. Wells were associated with marriage. It was the dance club of their time, where men and women meet to begin the dating process. Abraham's servant, for example, finds a bride for Isaac in Genesis 24. Jacob meets his future wife Rachael in Genesis 29 and Moses himself meets Zaphora in Exodus 2. Wells scream marriage. What was Jesus doing at this well with a woman? The detail of the time of day also jumps out. Noon was the hottest time of day. People instead, waited until the cool of the morning or the evening to carry the heavy jars of water back home. This little fact reveals that this woman is living a life of shame. She's purposefully avoiding the crowds of the morning and evening because of a mysterious sin in her life.

As the conversation continues, the cause of her pain becomes clear: "For you have had five husbands, and the one you have now is not your husband." (Cf. John 4:18). She's living with a man that is not her husband. Now that encounter with the woman at the well takes on a dramatic new significance. Jesus is fulfilling the ancient prophecy of Jeremiah 51:5. The Samaritans were part of those lost tribes lost centuries before but God did not forget them. He promised one day he would restore them. The five husbands of this Samaritan woman recalled the five false Gods that the Assyrians worshiped instead of the true God. They gave their fidelity to these deities. In other words, they gave these pagan gods their love.

Now let us return to the first question I asked in the beginning of this Pastor's Desk: What does God want? The woman at the well tells us – Jesus wants our hearts.

A Slave of Jesus Christ,

Fr. Brian J. Soliven

TERCER DOMINGO DE CUARESMA

12 de marzo de 2023

DESDE EL ESCRITORIO DEL PÁRROCO

Estimados Feligreses de Santa María,

Déjenme hacerles una gran pregunta. ¿Qué creen que Dios quiere? En este mismo momento, ¿qué quiere? Es una pregunta inesperada. A menudo no pensamos en esta perspectiva cuando pensamos en Dios. A menudo, nos enfocamos en lo que está sucediendo en nuestras vidas y en las tremendas cargas que llevamos. Pedimos a Dios que nos ayude con nuestra familia, nuestras enfermedades e innumerables problemas. Cuando seguimos en nuestro día normal, nos preguntamos qué tenemos que lograr. Pensamos en nuestro trabajo. ¿Pensamos en lo que vamos a cocinar para la cena? ¿Pensamos en lo que tenemos que hacer por nuestra familia? Todas las cosas geniales. Pero, ¿qué es lo que quiere Dios?

Podemos comenzar a responder a esta pregunta a través del famoso encuentro entre Jesús y las mujeres en el pozo del que escuchamos en la lectura del Evangelio de este domingo. Para obtener el significado más profundo detrás de esta historia, debemos ponernos nuestros anteojos judíos. Los detalles pueden pasar desapercibidos para nosotros como estadounidenses del siglo XXI. La primera línea nos lanza inmediatamente al drama: “En aquel tiempo, llegó Jesús a un pueblo de Samaria, llamado Sicar”. (Cf. Juan 4:5). Los judíos del primer siglo no se mezclaban con los samaritanos. Eran vistos como mestizos, traidores, remanentes repugnantes de las diez tribus perdidas del Reino del norte de Israel, quienes fueron diezmadas por el Imperio Asirio en el 721 AC. Los judíos siempre evitaban su territorio a toda costa.

Luego escuchamos que la mujer está en un "pozo" al "mediodía". En primer lugar, es importante recordar el significado cultural de un pozo en la cultura judía de esa época. Los pozos estaban asociados con el matrimonio. Era el club de baile de su época, donde hombres y mujeres se reunían para iniciar el proceso de acortejar. El sirviente de Abraham, por ejemplo, encuentra una novia para Isaac en Génesis 24. Jacobo conoce a su futura esposa Raquel en Génesis 29 y el mismo Moisés conoce a Zaphora en Éxodo 2. Los pozos gritan matrimonio. ¿Qué estaba haciendo Jesús en este pozo con una mujer? El detalle de la hora del día también salta a la vista. El mediodía era el momento más caluroso del día. La gente, en cambio, esperaba hasta el fresco de la mañana o de la tarde para llevar los pesados cántaros de agua a casa. Este pequeño hecho revela que esta mujer está viviendo una vida vergonzosa. Ella está evitando a propósito las multitudes de la mañana y la tarde debido a un pecado misterioso en su vida.

A medida que continúa la conversación, la causa de su dolor se vuelve clara: “Has tenido cinco, y el de ahora no es tu marido. En eso has dicho la verdad”. (Cf. Juan 4:18). Ella vive con un hombre que no es su esposo.

Ahora ese encuentro con la mujer en el pozo adquiere un significado nuevo y dramático. Jesús está cumpliendo la antigua profecía de Jeremías 51:5. Los samaritanos eran parte de esas tribus perdidas siglos atrás, pero Dios no se olvidó de ellos. Prometió que un día los restauraría. Los cinco esposos de esta mujer samaritana recuerdan los cinco dioses falsos que los asirios adoraban en lugar del Dios

Un Esclavo de Jesucristo,

Padre Brian J. Solinen
